

Case study 2:
Building Climate Change Capacity in the GMS

What is the issue? :

- GMS is the likely face increased risk due to extreme climatic events such as floods and droughts with profound effects on communities and economic development.
-

Why is action needed? :

- Climate change is likely to pose a greater challenge to ecosystem services on which livelihoods of many depends
-

How is the issue being addressed? :

- The project aims to build capacity among local institutions by providing training on modelling, assessment and analysis relevant to local and immediate needs

Who is involved? :

- Clean Air Initiative for Asia; AIT, South East Asian START and the Environmental Research and Training Center in Thailand; CERED and Hanoi University of Science in Vietnam and Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, Institute of World Economics and Politics and Center for Climate Impact Research, Ministry for Environmental Protection, PRC

When is it happening? :

- 2008 – 2009

Where are the activities located? :

- PRC, Thailand & Viet Nam

Possible solutions (Please fill out) :

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.

Contacts at ADB's GMS Environment Operations Center:

Sarah Katz, outreach specialist, tel.: +66 2207 4430 email: sarah@gms-eoc.org
Sumit Pokhrel, Research Associate on BCI and Climate Change, tel.: +66 2207 4444
email: sumit@gms-eoc.org